Memory of the traditional industry in Fez

The historic and cultural status of the city of Fez has played a prominent role in craftsmanship since ancient times. The emergence of modern industry, there was a traditional industry that was known in this city a great development enabled to cover the needs of the population of various products in all areas of life and the export of a large proportion of them to the rest Moroccan cities and outside Morocco, the development of this industry is listed until it is classified as similar classification which is available in modern industry in several areas such as: textile industry, garment industry / Leather Industry / Saffarin Industry / Blacksmithing Industry / Pottery and Porcelain / Wood Industry/ Food Industries / Construction Industries and some industries that were related to the rural world .

If we take a tour through most of the old city's neighborhoods, we will find several places named after the professions. You are still in business, which is now known as industrial life, and you will find other places to launch. The names of the products sold in them, for example, we find the spinning market and the market Hayek and the market Tllisalh and (Textile and spinning industry) and for the leather industry and its associated areas there are special places producing and selling such as the leather market and the role of the bear, including Ain Azlitan, Sidi Moussa, Shawara and Sabitrien And Saffarin. There are Saffarin neighborhood to produce metal and copper utensils and other crafts such as candles, jewelry ornaments ect.

For these main places, several units are spread throughout the Old City and some. And some industries were moved to the industrial neighborhood of Ain al-Naqi in the framework of the Fez rescue program. And to combat pollution to provide the necessary working conditions required.
